ABOUT MAPC

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC) is the regional planning agency for greater Boston and is committed to smart growth and equity for all. MAPC is assisting the Town of Rockland in creating a master plan to serve as its decision-making guide for land use, development, and preservation over the ten year period ending in 2030. The master plan will build upon pertinent, recent planning studies in order to propose a multi-pronged short-term and mid-term strategy for the Town achieving its own community development goals. The master plan will recommend implementation actions to help the Town invest in and work toward its own goals to influence its own future.
