“The Y has been able to provide leadership skills to certain youth by creating a culture of leadership. Many youths are interested in the transition from being a member of the Teen Center to working for the Y as an organization. They look to the Y for opportunities for growth. The Y employed a former Teen Center participant, and he is an example to other youth of available opportunities and that they are capable of representing the organization.”

“One youth in particular, who had two open courtcases, and regularly associated with gang involved youth, was having difficulty finding work because of his record. With intensive help from his case manager, he was assisted in finding two jobs; successfully completing the juvenile diversion program; and having his court cases closed. His new income also allowed him with the program’s help to rent a room in a new area and break away from the youth he was getting in trouble with. He continues to receive support from his program case manager.”

“By equipping youth with the resources necessary to lead safe and productive lives, Shannon CSI aims to deter violence and prevent homicides long before these individuals ever encounter a gun.”

A National Model

The Shannon Grant program is nationally recognized for its effective approach to deterring gang and youth violence through targeted enforcement and prevention strategies. Shannon programs and services continue to address the needs of a growing region, changing communities, and episodic spikes in crime.

METROPOLITAN MAYORS COALITION

a local initiative facilitated by
METROPOLITAN AREA PLANNING COUNCIL

The Metro Mayors Community Safety Initiative is a coalition of eight communities (Braintree, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Quincy, Revere, Somerville, and Winthrop) that receives Shannon Grant funds to implement regional strategies to combat youth and gang violence.

In 2022:

842 youth participated in youth development programs

140 youth participated in employment programs

1,373 community members attended events, meetings, and presentations

5,706 hot spot patrols conducted

Prevention-First Model

The Metro Mayors Community Safety Initiative (CSI) dedicates the majority of Shannon funds to prevention. The program primarily funds efforts to address the root causes of youth violence and gang involvement, and provides support for young people before they are impacted by or involved in violence.

In FY23, the Metro Mayors CSI was awarded $757,147.86.

- $279,898.53 was allocated to the Coalition’s law enforcement partners for hotspot patrols, attending community events, hosting junior police academies, staffing open recreation nights, etc.
- $345,316.49 was allocated to the Coalition’s prevention partners (community based organizations) to fund their youth programming, staffing costs, equipment, the youth mental health initiative, etc.
- $131,932.84 was allocated for site program management costs and for Coalition events like the Shannon Summerfest and Safety Summit.

Youth Mental Health Initiative

Surveys and health assessments in Metro Mayors communities have indicated increasing rates of depression and anxiety among young people.

With Shannon Grant funding, the Metro Mayors Coalition contracted with the North Suffolk Mental Health Association to provide law enforcement officers in Revere and Chelsea with training and support to better address the needs of young people with mental health issues.

“Roca’s work in the Shannon partnership is focused on serving young people who are affected by increasing gang activity in Chelsea and surrounding communities by engaging them in our Transitional Employment Program (TEP). TEP is about much more than providing job opportunities — it serves as a behavior change accelerator by providing a safe space for our young men to be challenged on the emotionally-driven behaviors that arise throughout the workday in the midst of physically demanding work and other stressors.”
